Asia but not quite

It's the idiosyncrasies that foster the spirit of curiosity, of interest, of the desire to know a little bit deeper.

In the heart of Southeast Asia, just between the Pacific Ocean and the South China Sea, lies an archipelago with 7,641 islands of paradise waiting to be explored – The Philippines.

An exclusive archipelago so secluded from its neighboring countries, the Philippines is distinctly apart and so culturally different from all its Asian neighbors.

Every island is home to a unique landscape, from rolling hills and lush jungles to sprawling cities and pristine beaches. Broadly categorized into three bigger groups of islands – Luzon, up north, the largest, which includes Manila, Laoag, Vigan, Banaue, Sagada, and Palawan; Visayas, in the middle, where Bohol, Cebu, and Boracay thrive; and Mindanao, down south, the second largest island where the beauty of Siargao can be found – only 2,000 of these islands are inhabited, which leaves the rest untouched, wondrous, and sublime.

The Philippines is a melting pot of cultures. She is 300 years of Spanish colonization, 48 years of American rule, nearly 4 years of Japanese occupation, and a cocktail of Malay, Arab, Indian, and Chinese imprints.

Spain draped the country with architecture and Catholicism as you'll recognize in the grand cathedrals and churches scattered all over the country, and the centuries-old Spanish-built "Walled City", the Intramuros.

The Americans gave the Filipinos education, not only in the English language, which makes it the 3rd largest English-speaking country in the world, but government systems, music, films, fashion, food, and psyche, too.

English is the language of commerce, law, and the primary medium of instruction in schools. Filipino, the official language, and some 100+ different dialects are spoken throughout the archipelago. Vestiges of the Spanish language still exist in these dialects, especially in elderly conversations.

Named in honor of Philip II of Spain, the Philippines, or officially the Republic of the Philippines, is a beautiful blend of multiple cultures. As Asia's only former Spanish colony, the Philippines offers an intriguing point of difference from its neighboring countries.

The fusion makes the country so unique, you'll be treated to not only endless summers, but also an array of interesting landscapes, tours, experiences, and people you'll remember who make up a place and ultimately define the experience.

The Weather

Type I.
Two pronounced seasons: dry from November to April and wet during the rest of the year.

Type II.
No dry season with a pronounced rainfall from November to January.

Type III.
Seasons are not very pronounced, relatively dry from November to April, and wet during the rest of the year.

Type IV.
Rainfall is more or less evenly distributed throughout the year.

There are three recognized seasons: Tag-init or Tag-araw (the hot season or summer from March to May), Tag-ulan (the rainy season from June to November), and Tag-lamig (the cold season from December to February).

The humid southwest monsoon (May-October) is known as "Habagat". The cool and dry winds of the northeast monsoon (November-April) are called "Amihan".

These seasons can seriously get mixed up by the El Niño / La Niña effects. El Niño brings dry weather and even droughts. La Niña stands for rainy weather and floods.

Manila, Your introduction to the Philippines
Manila reveals her soul to those who are open to truly know her. She is opulent but she doesn't parade it. She'd prefer to be appreciated as she is, scars and all, not for the expectations you think she should be.

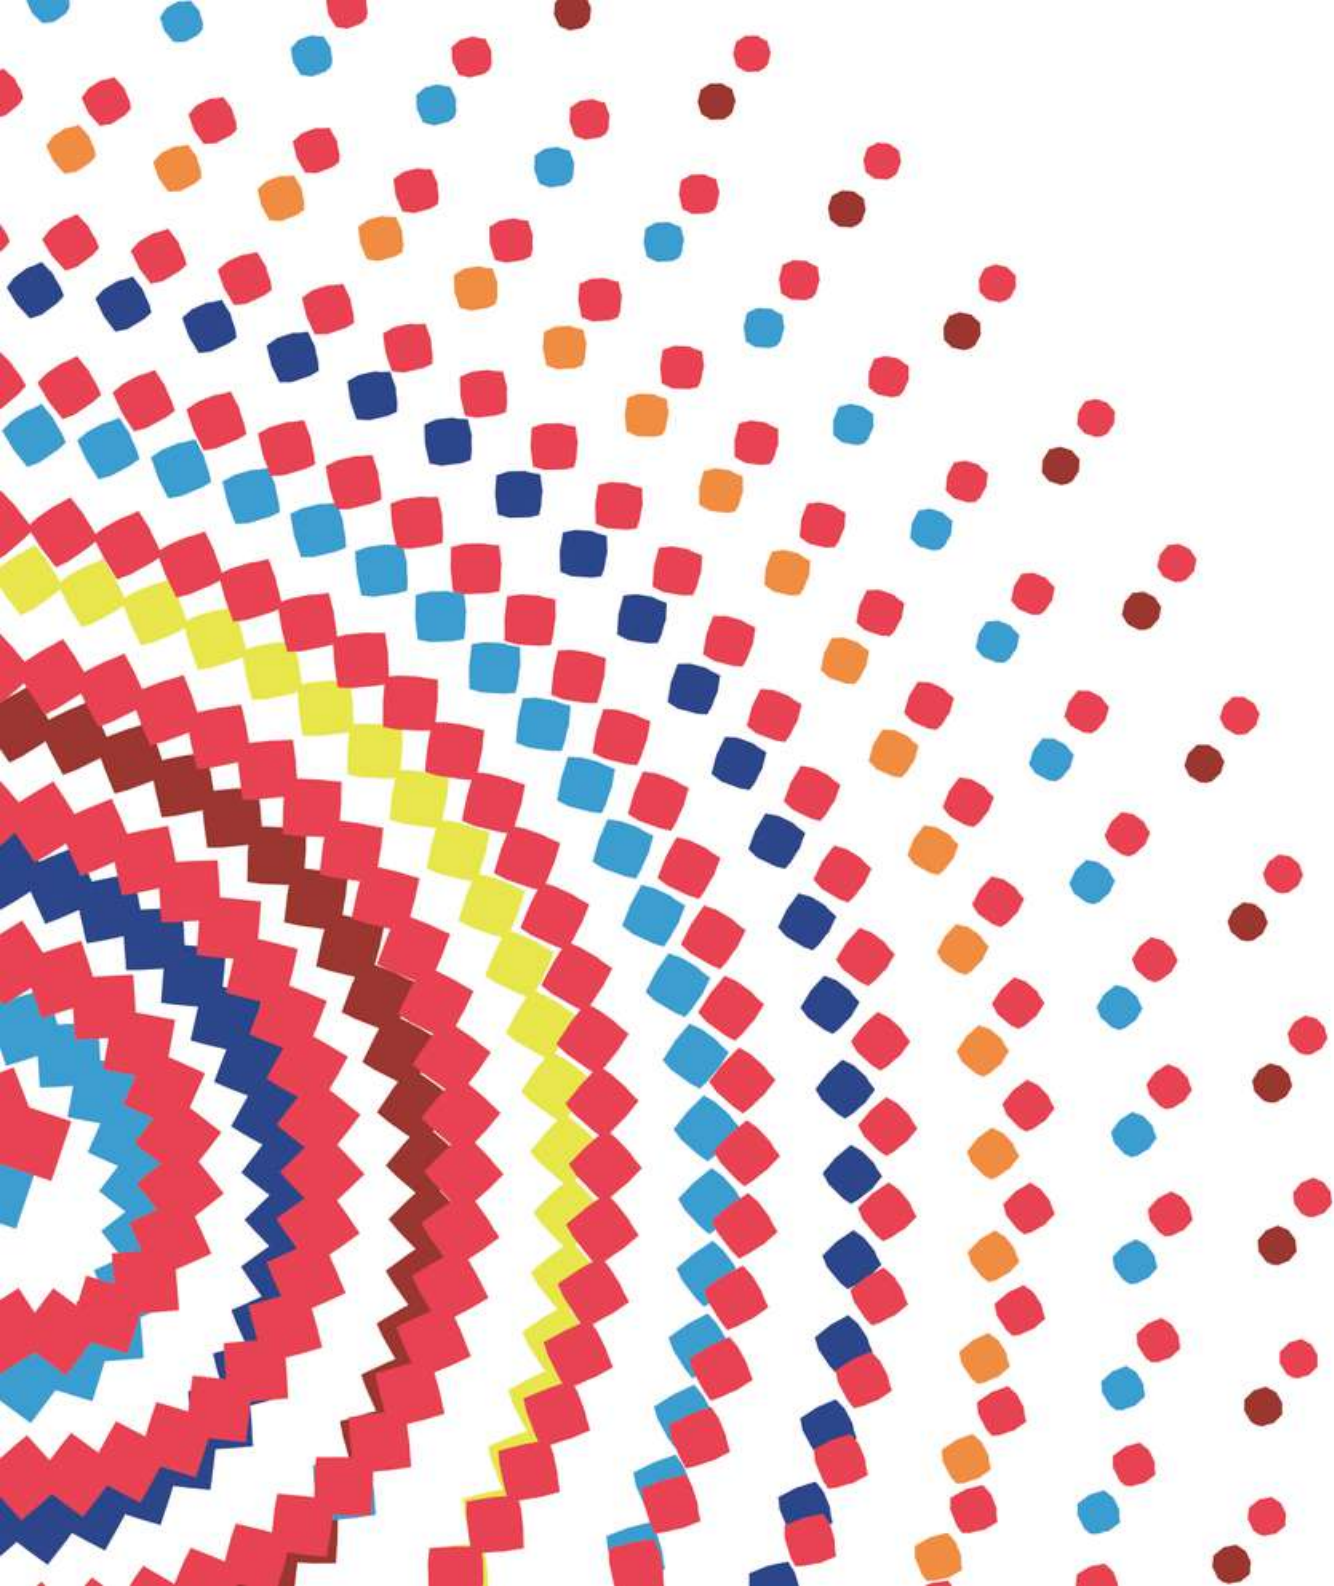

Manila is the capital city of the Philippines, as is what's loosely used to pertain to the whole metropolitan region consisting of 16 cities and 1 municipality, more aptly, the Metro Manila.

Located on the eastern shore of Manila Bay in Luzon, vibrant Manila is a mix of sophistication and energy as the center of Philippine culture, arts, commerce, industry, and tourism.

If you want a peek into her depth, you're better off standing inside, with eyes closed, feeling the air, listening to her tell her story so softly, almost a whisper, in the middle of the ancient structures in Intramuros. Founded by the Spanish in 1571 as the center of its conquest of the Philippines, Intramuros, the "Walled City", encapsulates her silent strength, her resilience, her strong foundation, her subtle beauty, her grace, her steadfastness amidst everything she had to go through.

Your first stop in the Philippines is “The Walled City”, the Intramuros District in Manila. You’ll be introduced to the capital’s history, which showcases the strong Spanish influence as you go on a guided walking tour around Intramuros, San Agustin Church and museum, and Baluarte de San Diego.

The word "jeepney" is a portmanteau of pre-war "jitney", a US passenger bus, and post-World War II US military "jeep", which became the template for the modern jeepney. The jeep can be found all over the country painted in loud colors, novelty images, or funny phrases, and the fare is cheap.

BOHOL ISLAND Destinations

Poetic names have been written to describe Bohol. It is God's Little Paradise and it is the Land of Enchantment. This oval-shaped island draws you in like a spell. From the numerous mounds of brown-colored limestone formations, more popularly known as the Chocolate Hills to the smallest primates in the world, the Tarsiers, from the 16th-century watchtowers to Baroque Jesuit mission churches, from the Loboc River to Tagbilaran City itself, Bohol is a place of culture and history and a home to overwhelming wonders in the land and the sea.

Come and visit Bohol – the island that has it all! Traverse the Loboc River stand-up paddling; go quad-biking at the foot of the Chocolate Hills or bike-zip through its picturesque view; learn how to make Calamay, a Bohol delicacy, also a quintessential souvenir; celebrate a patron saint, a harvest, or a historical event with the locals in one of the town fiestas; watch the dolphins in Pamilacan, snorkel in the vivid depths of the small Balicasag Island Reef Sanctuary off the coast of Panglao, and enjoy the beautiful beaches and cave pools of Anda.

Bohol cradles you like a nurturing mother replete with every life experience you'll ever need, nothing less, always more.

EL NIDO, PALAWAN

Feet in the sand, cocktail in your hand, eyes to the horizon admiring sundown. This is you in one of the most breathtaking and enchanting islands in the entire world, El Nido in Palawan.

Southwest of the Philippines, north of Palawan, the island contrasts between the mundane and the sublime.

El Nido was named after the edible nests of swiftlets (collocalia fuciphaga), found in the crevices of its limestone cliffs. These nests, nido in Spanish, the main ingredient for the gourmet nido soup, are being sold at approximately US$ 3,000 per kilogram.

There are but a few places on earth that are left untouched and El Nido has some of the most beautiful sceneries you will ever encounter. This cluster of 45 small islands off the tip of Palawan is surrounded by white sand, magical lagoons, stunning limestone formations rising majestically above the bright blue turquoise glasslike waters teeming with vibrant marine life and coral reefs.

Bask and appreciate all the beauty in beaches and paradise islands that never end.

CORON, PALAWAN

Watch breathtaking scenery in stillness. Marvel at the ethereal sense of mystery.

Coron is best known for world-class World War II-era wreck diving — a fleet of sunken Japanese warships in 20-35 meters of water, but the island also offers limestone karst landscapes, golden sand beaches, freshwater lakes, and colorful marine life.

Savor Kayangan Lake's cool waters, the sort of place you could take a picnic and easily spend the whole day. Swim through a cave in the water to traverse a hidden lagoon where no one will bother. Set sail on the turquoise waters and go on an exclusive tour of Coron Islands. Watch the sun set over the ocean. Wind down after a day of adventure in the most majestic of settings.

From gorgeous beaches and towering karst cliffs that cloister pristine lagoons and lakes, to exquisite scuba diving and all sorts of wildlife, it is an extraordinary experience that will leave you eager to go back and spend more time in the Philippines' Calamian Archipelago in Northern Palawan.

PUERTO PRINCESA AND SABANG, PALAWAN

There is wisdom in being subtle.

Puerto Princesa, the capital city of Palawan, has always been an afterthought, a passageway, a temporary holding space that thrusts one to that much-anticipated magical paradise. The crowd swarms to the more favored Coron and El Nido and misses this absolute gem.

“The City in a Forest”, the Eco-Tourism Center of the Philippines, acclaimed the cleanest and greenest city many times over, Puerto Princesa is the Philippines’ last frontier.

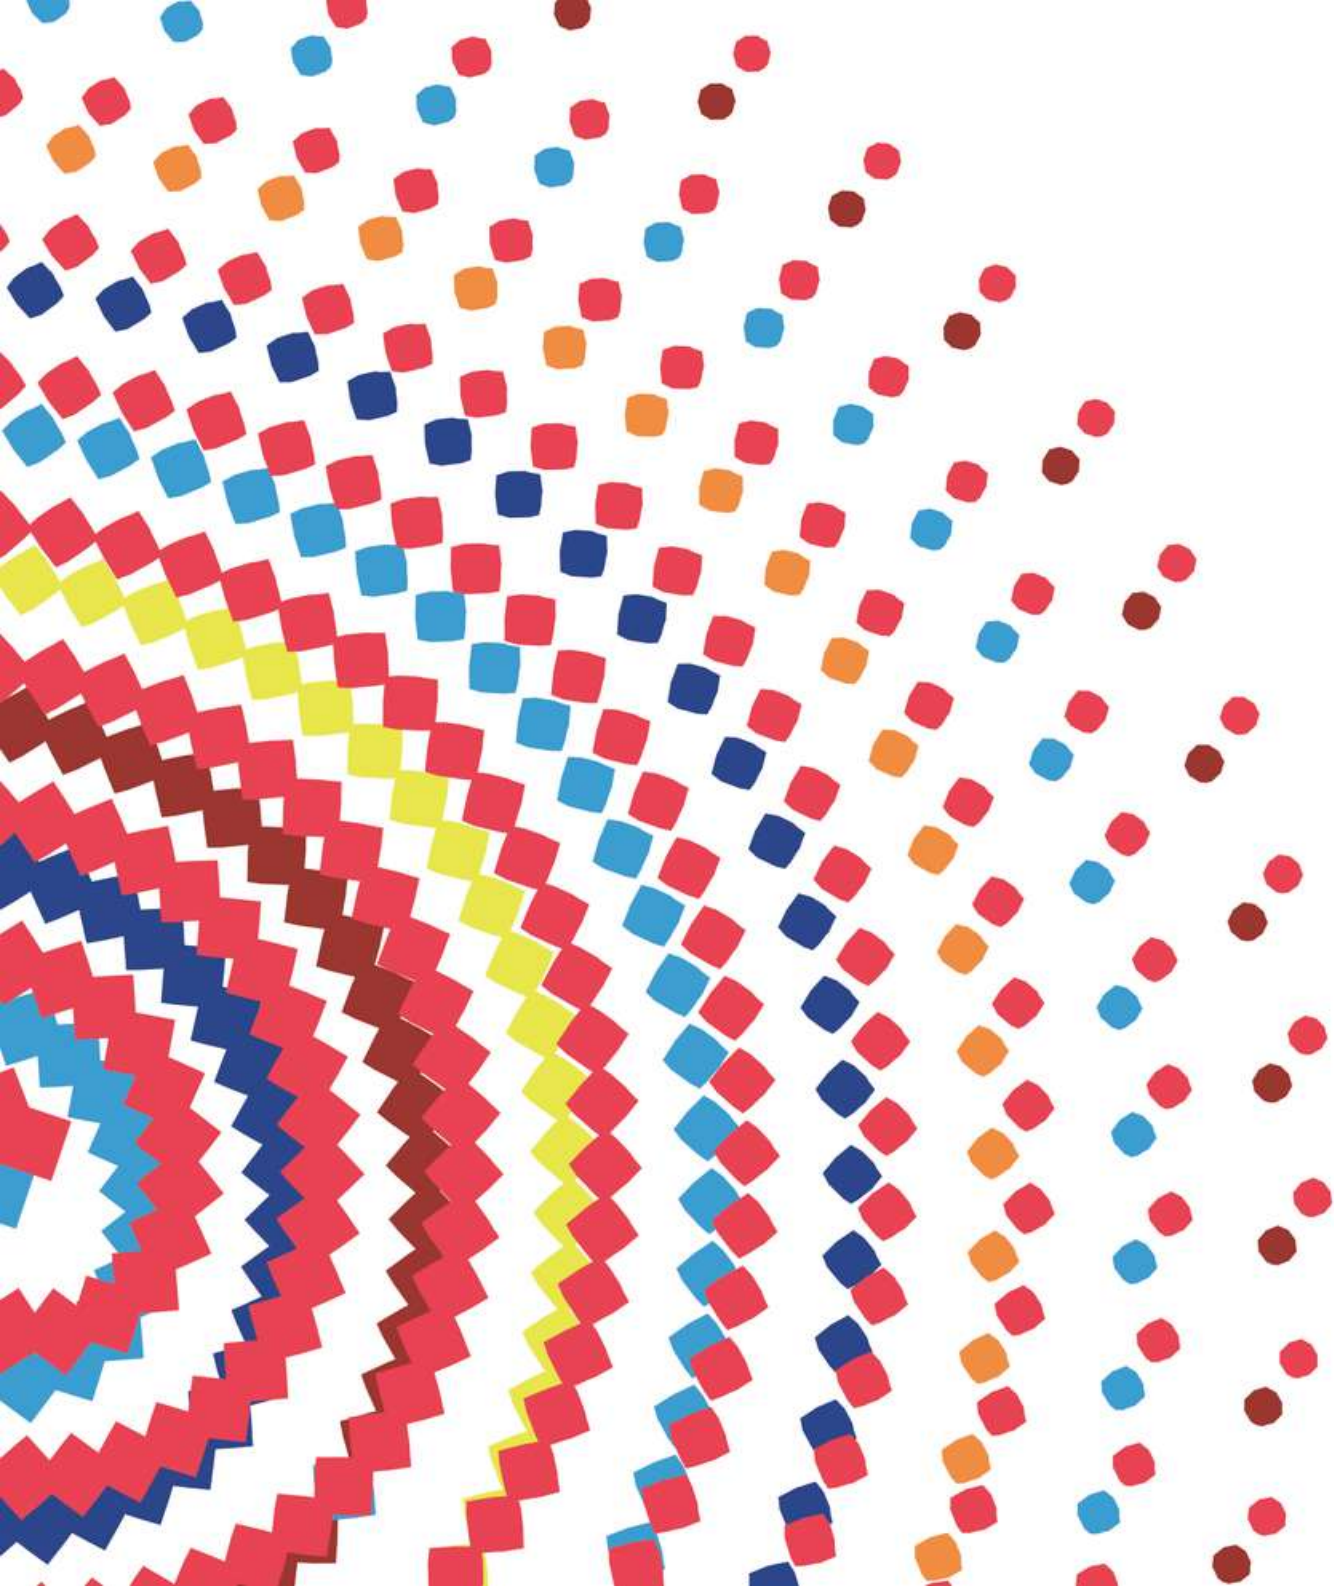

Sabang is a small village in Palawan, an hour and a half drive from Puerto Princesa. It is the entry point to the Puerto Princesa Subterranean River.

From Sabang’s pier, you’ll boat through the jade-green waters and karst landscapes around the bay for 30 minutes until you’re welcomed by the impressive stalactite and stalagmite formations inside the Puerto Princesa Underground River, a UNESCO World Heritage Site and holds a place in the New7Wonders of Nature.

Brimming with countless natural wonders, topped with good food, outstanding cleanliness, and friendly, disciplined people, Puerto Princesa might just take your breath away if you let it.

CEBU ISLAND Destinations

Whether the sun shines or the wind blows, you'll find yourself amidst the best of both worlds. Cebu, "the Queen City of the South", the oldest city and first capital of the Philippines, is a perfect balance of island coast and cosmopolitan living.

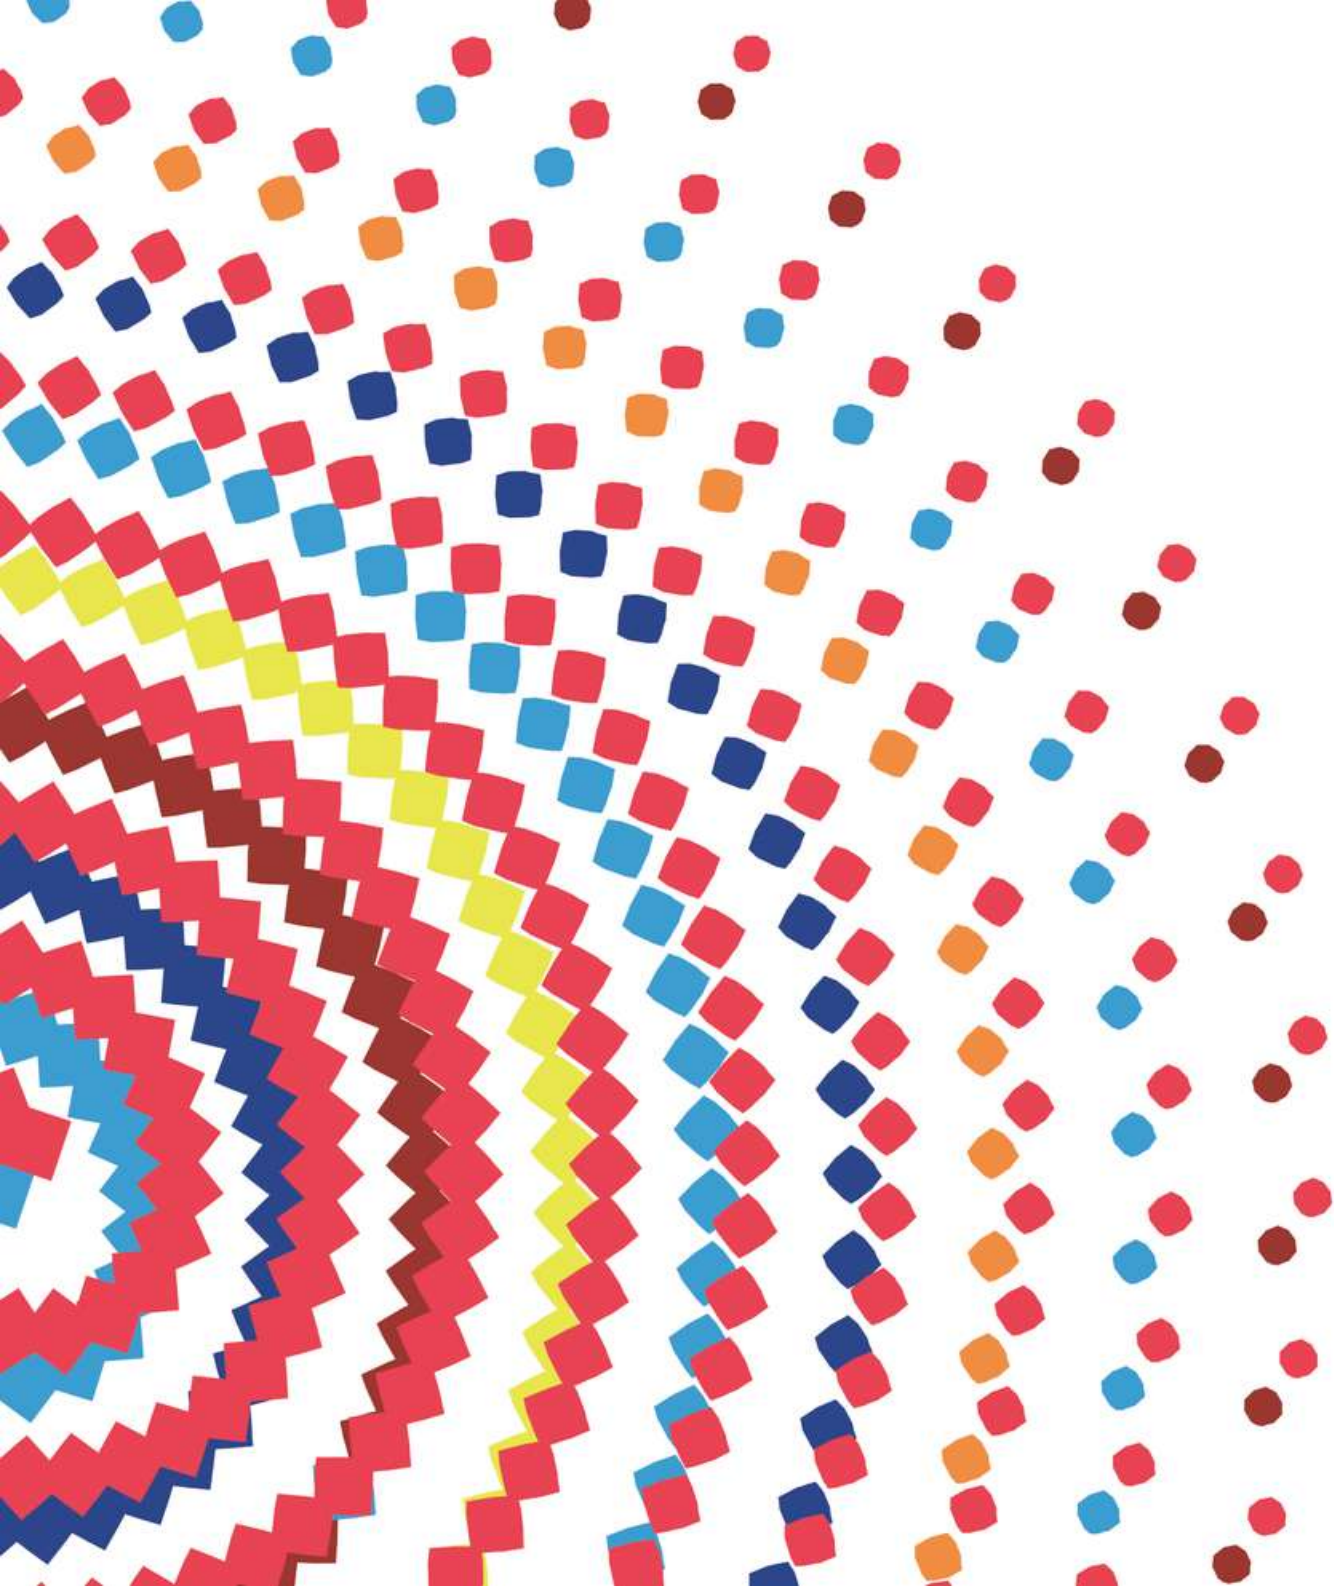

Usher in the sunrise swimming with the whales in Oslob. Live it up canyoneering in Badian. Cheer spirited adventurers of all ages as they jump off Kawasan Falls. Swim with the turtles and the sardine run in Moalboal. Wind down the night raising your champagne glass against the silhouette of the city skyline.

The Portuguese navigator, Ferdinand Magellan, once landed on the island in 1521 attracted by its focal position. Currently, Cebu is the main center of industry, education, commerce, and trade on the island of Visayas. Coming from the old Cebuano word, "sibu" or "sibo", Cebu translates to trade, a shortened form of sinibuyang hingpit, 'the place for trading'.

Explore cultural heritage sites, majestic waterfalls, sumptuous food, spectacular beaches, and vibrant city life all on one island. Cebu certainly spoils you with options.

SIARGAO ISLAND

Destinations

Siargao isn't only high on waves for surfing but also on the list of the best islands in the world.

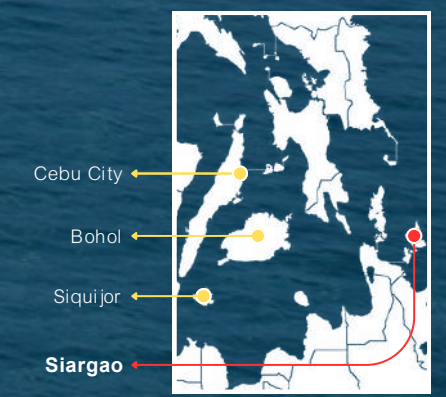

Witness graceful surfers skillfully balance their way through barrels of big waves or learn to stand up on a wave of your own. The surfing capital of the Philippines, off the northeastern coast of Mindanao, has dozens of surf spots, there surely is a place for everyone.

Named after a native mangrove, "siargaw" or "saliargaw" (Premna odorata), this teardrop-shaped island is more than its perfect swells. Siargao is a raw, unspoiled paradise swathed in coconut palms, surrounded by glistening white sand, beautiful reefs, blue waters, and a cool, relaxed island culture.

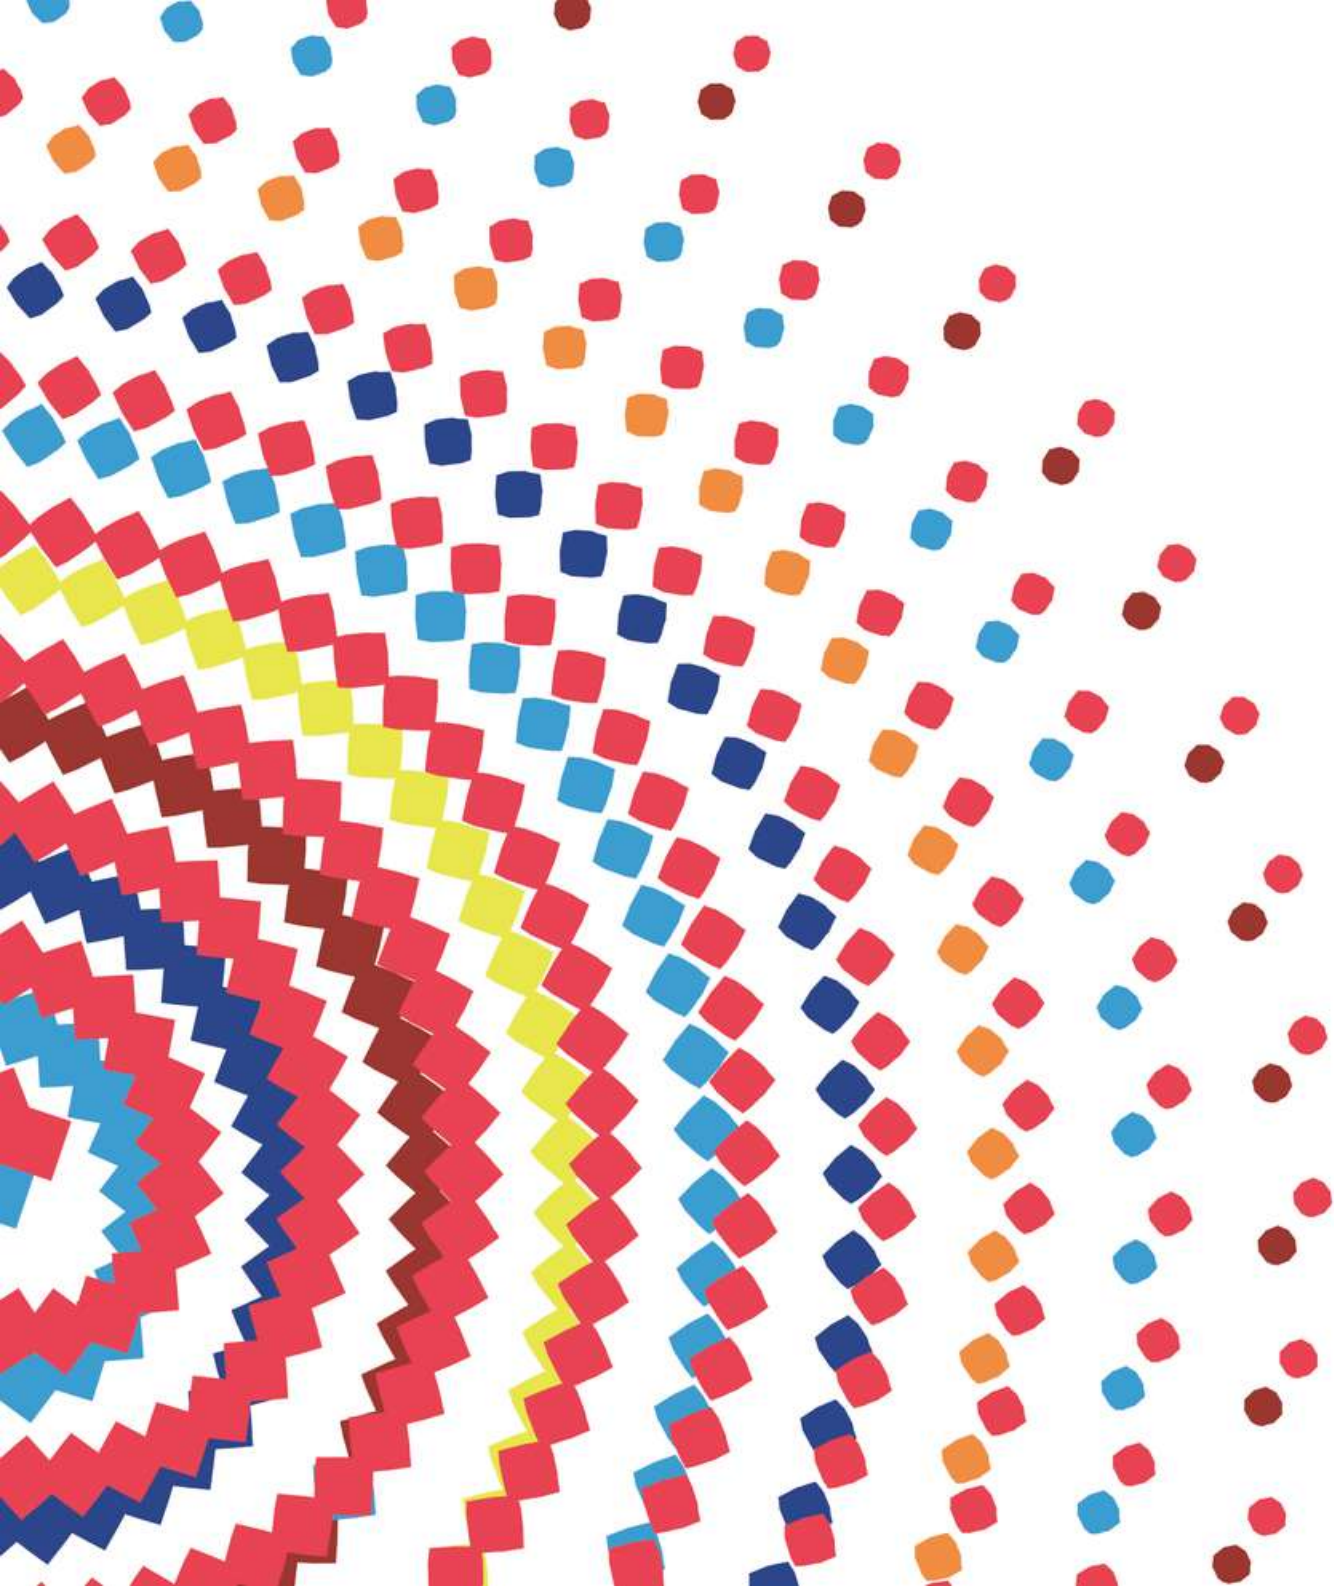

This tropical sanctuary in the southern Philippines is a 2.5-hour flight away from Manila, 1 hour from Cebu.

Take a moment to slow down, watch as the pastels in the sky burn and slowly dim, and be charmed by the countryside.

Whether you embrace adrenaline-fuelled adventure sports or gentler pursuits, Siargao welcomes you.

Siargao Mangrooves

Magpupungko Rock Pools

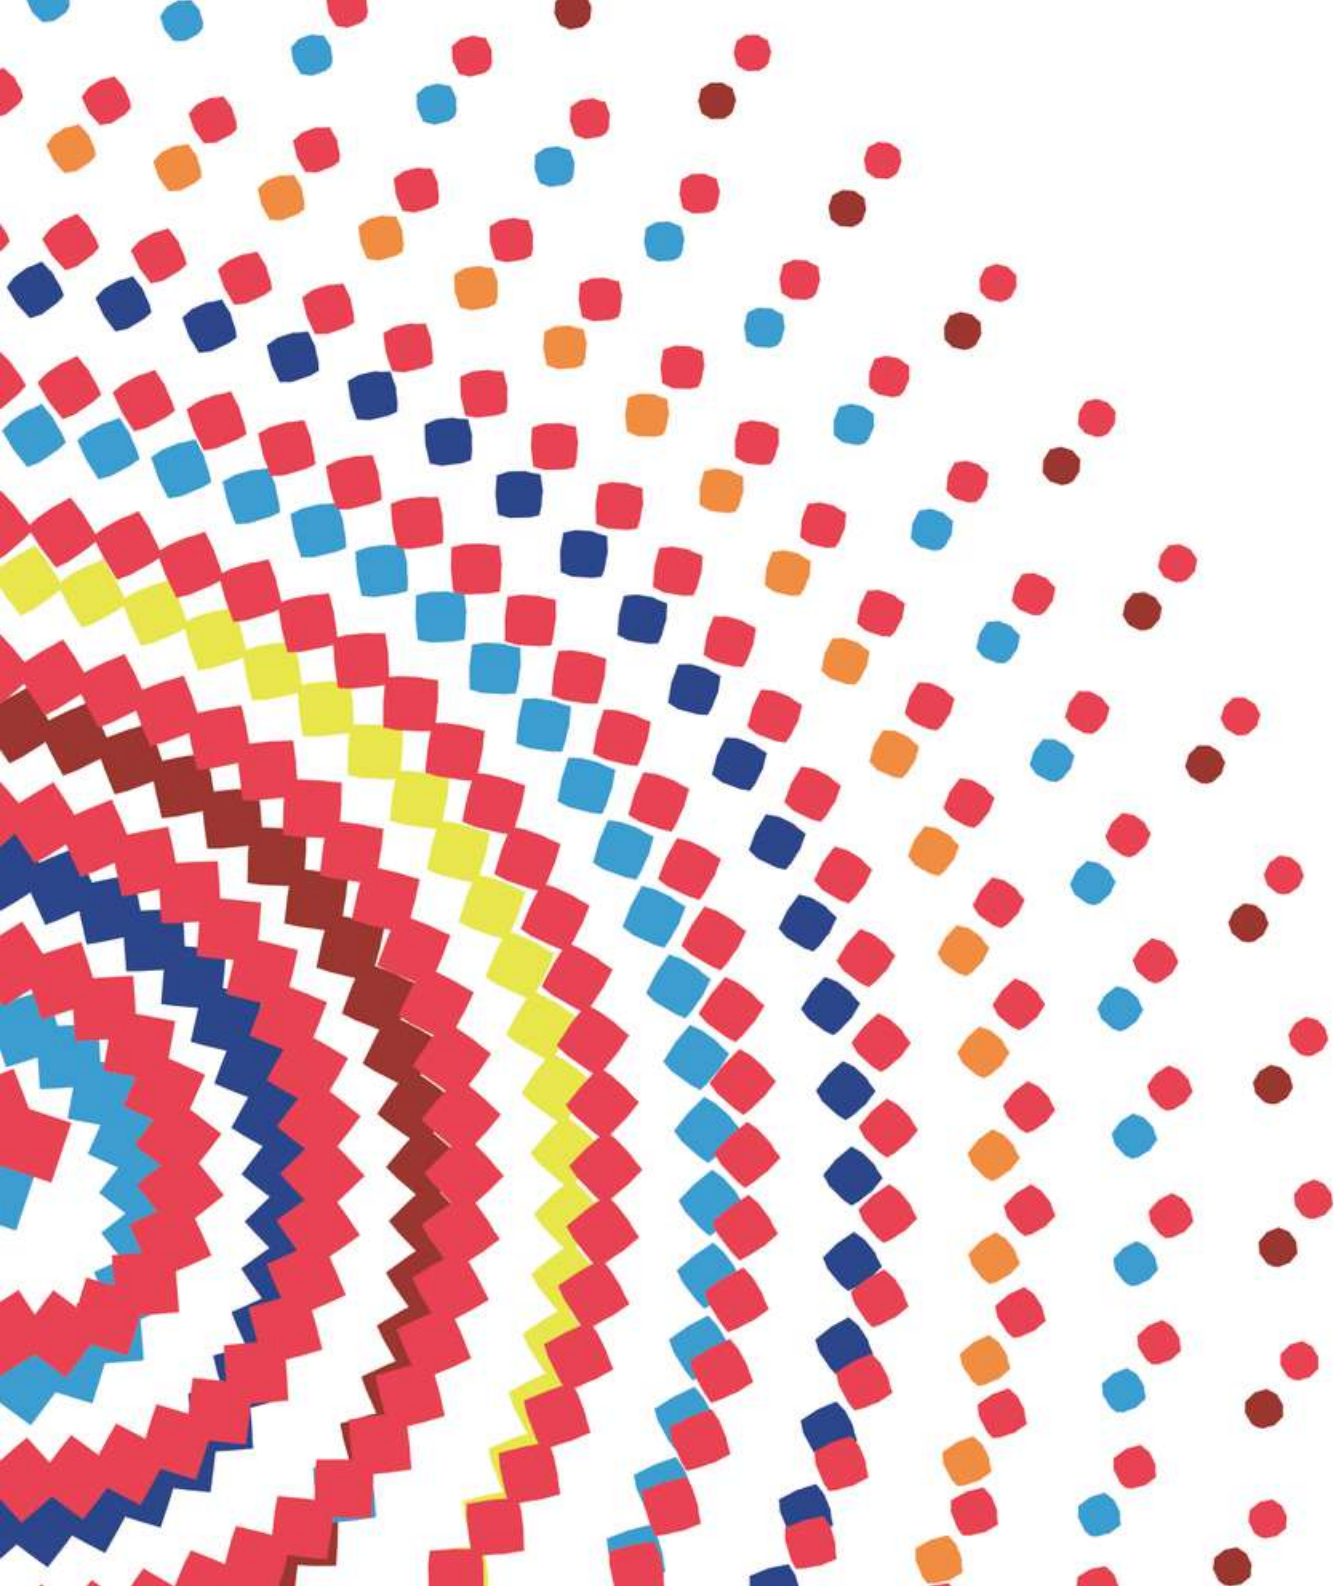

Options abound as you explore Siargao Island. Sail through and see the different islands of Guyam, Daku, and Naked Islands. Drive down Siargao's most photographed scenic road full of lush coconut trees or cross rice paddies by scooter or bike.

The Magpupungko rock pools are fascinating natural seawater tidal pools. They are best visited at low tide when they are exposed, and are an awesome spot for hours of exploring and cliff jumping. It's called magpupungko ('pungko' in local Visayan dialect means to squat) because of a gigantic rock that appears to be squatting on another rock.

NAY PALAD, HIDEAWAY

*A Destination
of its Own*

Located on the southeastern tip of the island of Stargao, the hideaway is nestled between two distinct marine ecosystems. On one end of the property, the hideaway village overlooks the Pacific Ocean and sits just behind the white-sand beach that runs along our peaceful, private bay. On the other end, the property faces six square kilometers of ancient mangrove forests and natural waterways.

Nay Palad Boat in the Mangroves

Imagine a world of Barefoot Luxury! A philosophy of travel that the founders passionately wanted to share with the world. The birthplace of Barefoot Luxury, Nay Palad Hideaway (formerly known as Dedon Island Resort), nestles between ancient mangrove forests and the soft white sands of Siargao, in the Philippines.

In easy reach of tropical jungle, underground caves, untouched beaches, deep sea fishing and the legendary Cloud 9 barreling wave, Nay Palad lets you create own rhythm, turning each day into a different story.

Passing through the gates of Nay Palad Hideaway, you leave the real world behind. There's no need for wallet here. No checks are signed. From now on, every delicacy you desire, every drink you fancy, every massage you need, every adventure you seek, is yours from the asking. There's just one thing we ask in return: Treat this palm-fringed paradise as your home and let us make your dreams come true!

The Amianan Restaurant of the resort serves breakfast, lunch and dinner, while light meals can be enjoyed at the pool bar. The resort offers a sustainable menu and uses organically grown produce from the resort's organic farm in its gourmet dishes. For a more bespoke experience, the resort can also arrange an intimate dinner by the beach or nearby islands or a picnic lunch at one of its beach clubs.

Banaue Rice Terraces

THE NORTH

(Banaue, Sagada, Vigan, and Laoag)

Destinations

The North spans a wide array of places to explore, from the lowlands to the mountaintops, the land and the sea. We've handpicked 4 endearing destinations that we know will further enrich your sojourn in the Philippines.

We'll bring you to Banaue to see for yourself the world-renowned rice terraces, a UNESCO heritage site; Sagada, a charming quiet town in the mountain where tribal rituals and cultures are intact and well-preserved; Vigan, where a cobblestone stretch of Spanish-era architecture still stands today; and Laoag, the vibrant and dynamic growth center in the north with well preserved colonial architecture.

BANAUE

Man-made around 2000 years ago, the Ifugao Rice Terraces begin at the base of the mountain range and extend several thousand feet upwards. Two of the terrace clusters in Banaue, namely Bangaan and Batad, are part of the UNESCO World Heritage inscription. It is said that their length, if put end to end, would encircle half of the globe. These rice terraces are impressive not only for their chiseled beauty but also as proof that magic happens when industry works in harmony with nature.

SAGADA

Sagada holds an allure unique to places that are left untouched. It's one of the few places in the Philippines that has preserved its indigenous culture and was barely influenced by the Spanish mission. With its scenic and calming mountain valleys, limestone caves, refreshing waterfalls, and cliffs that come with a sea of clouds, it's a blissful mountain enclave where you'll want to escape to, recharge with human warmth and kindness, and momentarily forget about the world.

VIGAN

Vigan is a UNESCO World Heritage site and the country's best-preserved historic city that dates back to the 16th century Spanish colonial period. It has remained unique among the Philippine towns with architecture reflecting a fusion of Asian and European design. Travel back to the olden times as you stroll around the cobblestone streets of Calle Crisologo lined with rustic mansions and horse-drawn carriages. You'll witness culture and townscape that have no parallel anywhere in East and Southeast Asia.

LAOAG

Laoag means "bright" or "light" in the native Ilocano language. Aptly named, "The Sunshine City", 450 km north of Manila, is the provincial capital of Ilocos Norte, and the biggest city in the Ilocos region in Luzon. Whether you want to chill along the beaches of Pagudpud, try out the fresh local delicacies, coast along the panoramic sand dunes, or just take a leisurely stroll around the city center, Laoag shows you how beautifully preserved colonial architecture mixes with but still stands out among modern infrastructure.

Hanging Coffins

Trek the awe-striking man-made Batad Rice Terraces. Swim in or meditate on Tappiya Fall's breathtaking scenery. Take a rest in a native Ifugao house, a simple architectural design made out of timbers tied together without using nails.

Unique to Sagada is the tribal practice of hanging coffins. It is out of a belief that the higher the dead were placed, the greater chance of reaching a higher nature in the afterlife. You will see this for yourself as you trek the Echo Valley and Lumiang Burial Cave, among other one-of-kind Sagada experiences.

Paoay – San Agustin Church

The Saint Augustine Church, famously known as the Paoay Church, takes you back to the Philippines' Spanish colonial era with its charming baroque architecture.

The Church in Paoay

We hope this travel guide gives you a glimpse of the awe and wonder you'll find in the Philippines. It is never the same as the life-enriching experience of actually being there – your feet on the sand, bearing witness to marvelous sunsets, swimming in depths with schools of fishes and turtles, exchanging words with the local tribesmen, or actually setting foot in century-old architecture that was built by your ancestors.

This is a glance, a vision, a promise of what awaits you when you accept our invitation to travel to the Philippines. It's a long journey but we'll make sure it's worth it.

We'll bring you back home refreshed, renewed, with a new perspective of the world of travel, of what truly makes it glorious.

"That's what travel does after all. And with V&C, you get all that but premium – passionately personalized, exclusive, bespoke."
