This unusual offering makes perfect sense once experienced and is so extraordinary to the senses - visual and cerebral - that it is a must on every visitor's personal selection. Drive with us deep into the desert at the hour before dawn and in the dark twinkling predawn, partake of a nourishing breakfast of traditional Indian sweets & savories showcasing the culinary art of the Halwai. This early hour heralds the arrival of hundreds of peacocks called in to feed, as the sun begins to rise over the Fort.

As paradoxical as it may sound, deep in the heartland of the desert, minutes away from the hotel, in secret enclaves between rocky escarpments, are found acres and acres of soft green pastures and lush oases, mystifying the eye and delighting the spirit. It is here that we find ourselves far from the bustle of life, in pristine settings that are almost biblical, celebrating our now legendary Suryagarh picnics. Straight out of a Merchant-Ivory production complete with parasols, orange-turbaned waiters and tall, cool drinks, these are precious experiences to be treasured.

EXPLORATIONS

THE THAR TRAIL

This incredible land reveals its rare beauty only to the discerning. Discover with us places steeped in antiquity as we take you on a two-hour trail through shifting sands and thorny scrub. Explore villages, ancient watering holes, ruined serais and ancient cemeteries as you drive through the most magical and dramatic of landscapes. Those who don't take the time will never know the beauty of the desert. She will share her warmth with you, and show you mysterious places if you are willing to give her the time.

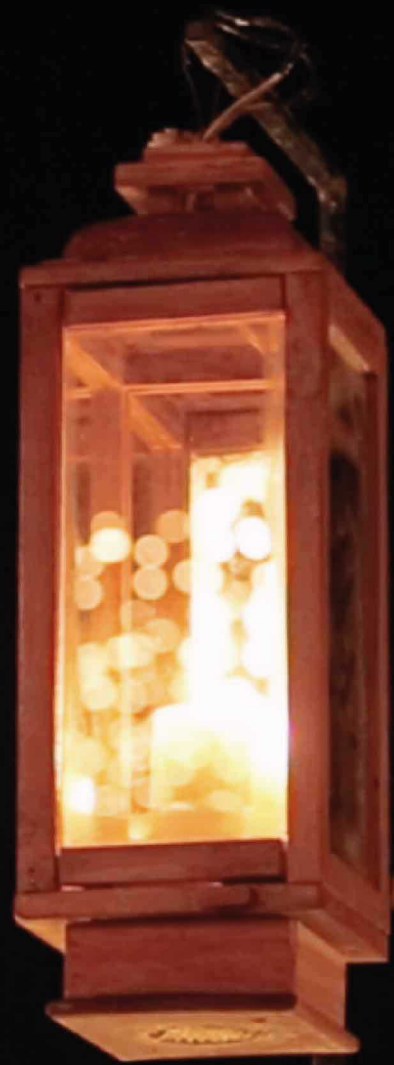

TEMPLE TRAIL

Quite apart from the regular tourist map our Temple Trail features desert and high plateau locations rich in tradition and folklore. A short drive from the hotel, the Nabdhoongar temple is located on a high plateau overlooking the vast expanse of the Thar. This entire area is a treasure trove of ancient craftsmanship, some hidden and some exposed. A mighty monsoon-fed lake and lush overgrown gardens with peacocks and fruit trees make up this decaying, enchanting complex. Vast landscapes and ever changing terrains offer a rare insight into the traditions and beliefs of the hardy people of Jaisalmer.

THE GREAT INDIAN BUSTARD TRAIL

The Desert National Park established in 1980 is believed to be the largest sanctuary of India. The Great Indian Bustard, a magnificent bird, once found in abundance across the desert, now faces the risk of extinction. Hunting, habitat loss and fragmentation have reduced the number of these species, which hovers around 250. The Desert National park promises excellent opportunities for beginners and serious bird watchers to get a perfect view of the bustards, a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. One can also spot Sand Grouse Eagles, Bustards, Drongos, Quail, Demoiselle Cranes and Falcons. A paradise for birds and bird-watchers!.

THE CHUDAIL TRAIL

Thorny scrub and forgotten sites in the desert are still said to be inhabited by spirits called chudails. The chudial trail, ingeniously designed by Suryagarh, takes you on a midnight drive to all the spots, nooks and crannies in the surrounding area where they say the persecuted spirit of the chudail circulates. Your journey begins close to midnight as you drive up to the Paliwal cemeteries near the Khaba ruins through off-road trails past the Shamshaan Ghat where cremated ashes of local chieftains and women who died in sati are buried. The trail takes you to the burial ground near Jaziya Talao and into the abandoned ghost town of Kuldhara and the dark lake where discontented spirits are said to swirl in the dead of night.
